Another member of the Olson crew, injured seriously, was taken by helicopter to the naval dispensary at Monterey.

The Howard Olson's stern went down soon after the crash.

Three hours after the collision only the bow section of the schooner remained afloat.

Coast Guard casualty figures came from the master of the freighter John B. Waterman which picked up one survivor and one body from the 56-degree water.

Others were picked up by the Marine Leopard.

The collision occurred at 2:50 a.m. PDT about 2 1/2 miles off Point Sur. That's about 175 miles south of San Francisco and 20 miles south of this plush Monterey Bay resort area.

K. W. Anderson, officer in charge of the Coast Guard light house at Point Sur, said all he could see before dawn was the search lights of rescue vessels and flames dropped by a Coast Guard airplane. At dawn, all he could see of the Olson was the bow section.

Ship Collision On West Coast Takes 3 Lives

Freighter Shears Schooner in Two; 2 Presumed Dead

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — Three men lost their lives and two others are presumed dead, as a 10,000-ton freighter sheared through a little lumber ship off the Monterey coast before dawn today.

The Howard Olson, a coastwise steam schooner, en route from Los Angeles to Coos Bay, Ore., for a load of lumber, sank several hours after it was rammed and sliced in two by the much larger freighter, Marine Leopard.

The collision occurred about 8 miles south of Point Sur.

All the casualties were from the crew of the Howard Olson.

After rescuing 22 of the Olson crewmen, and conducting an unsuccessful search for the two missing men, the Marine Leopard turned back to San Francisco. It had been headed south.

The resignation had been anticipated since the two dissident factions of the ruling Colorado party decided to unite last October, the newspaper added, and a new set of ministers is expected to be named shortly.

Will Feature Aerial Flyovers—Visitors to Whiteman's 'Open House' Will See Power Display

The thousands of guests visiting Whiteman Air Force Base Saturday and Sunday will witness the greatest display of air power ever staged for Armed Forces Day at the Eighth Air Force installation of the Strategic Air Command.

Officials at Whiteman—the home of the 340th Bombardment Wing—have extended an Armed Forces Day invitation to all the citizens in this area.

Among the primary attractions on the program are a series of aerial flyovers. Included in this impressive demonstration of air power will be a jet assisted take-off of a B-47, low-level refueling hookups by the Stratoforts and KC-97 tankers and formation flights of both the medium jet bombers and the tankers.

Inter-service cooperation will also be illustrated by the 12 Navy F9F jet fighters which are to "pass and review" for the crowds and a simulated strafing operation conducted by four F-86 Sabre Jets is also being planned.

When Whiteman's guests tire of craning their necks to the skies, they'll have a chance for a close-up look at the combat aircraft. Maintenance stands will be set up near B-47's to allow the visitors to inspect the inside of the Stratofort cockpit and they will also be taken through the KC-97 interior.

Ground and flight crew members will be on hand at both types of aircraft to answer questions. Other services will be represented by "static displays," providing a total of 16 different types of aircraft.

For the more technically minded visitors, there will be displays of the jet and reciprocating engines which power the Stratofort and KC-97. The field maintenance shops and aircraft engine build-up shop will be open to the public, thus providing an insight into the work of the maintenance men whose skill keeps the airplanes in the air.

Other phases of Whiteman's operation which will attract interest are: a typical dormitory room, base theater, and the parachute and survival equipment shop—all of which will be open to the public.

During the two-day event, judo exhibitions will be given every hour on the hour along with an explanation of how this rugged physical conditioning plays a vital role in the training of SAC's combat crew members.

Another unusual sight for civilians will be the demonstration of SAC's famous sentry dogs which guard the command's planes and equipment. Whiteman's smoke eaters will be active too, as the base fire department puts on a hot grill, showing the equipment and techniques used in fighting aircraft blazes.

Gleanings of information here and there have built up this puzzling account of the events that led up to Crabb's disappearance. The diver and a "Mr. Smith" arrived at the port of Portsmouth April 17 and checked in at the Salford Hotel. From the hotel Crabb wrote his aged mother that he was "going on a job, but it's a simple mission." He told her not to worry and that he'd be back in about two days.

Whiteman is particularly proud to open its gates to visitors at this time since the base is nearing the first anniversary of the date the 340th Bombardment Wing became combat ready. It was little more than a year ago that the Wing took its place in SAC's global operations and since then it has proven itself to be one of the best organizations in the command. Great strides have also been made in the area of defense.

Congress Is Told Military Aid Cut Might Be Perilous

Secretary of Defense Wilson Says It Would Mean Complete Re-evaluation of US Position

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson told Congress today that any cut in the administration's program of foreign military assistance would run a "serious risk" to the defense of this country "and the Free World."

Furthermore, he said, it would require this country to undertake "a complete re-evaluation of our own international position and of our own military budgets."

Wilson testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in support of the administration's $4,900,000,000 foreign aid program.

"Today," Wilson said, "we are helping to support about 200 divisions in the armies of our Allies."

This Allied force, he said, "is several times the strength of our own Army."

Reduced aid for these armies, he said, would require a "much greater increase" in American manpower and equipment at a much greater cost than that entailed under the foreign aid program.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, cautioned against allowing "ourselves or our friends" to "fall into the trap that is being staked out for us" by Soviet Russia.

For the present, he said, the Communists seem to be relying on programs of economic, military and technical assistance because the tactics of violent revolution and overt aggression became "too hazardous" in the face of American-supported defense alliances.

"We would be playing into the Communist hand if we failed to show clearly that we understand how important it is that the Free World remain strong and invulnerable to the Communist exploitation of force," Radford said.

The Soviets are "making a great deal of noise about peace," Radford said, but are also "striving to the best of their ability to build their own military capabilities to the highest possible levels."

There is no question, Radford said, that "more modern and efficient weapons and equipment" are flowing into the Red arsenal "at a steady, if not increased rate."

He added: "The imminence of introduction into the Soviet armed forces of nuclear weapons, a wide range of guided missiles, efficient bombers and fighters, and new tanks and transports is the plainest proof that the present Communist dictators have not and do not intend to abandon the use of force when ever they feel it will serve their ends."

Wilson and Radford argued primarily in support of an authorization of about three billion dollars for military assistance abroad.

Included in this is about $530,000,000 for "advanced weapons" for members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and other free countries.

Further, he said, it would require this country to undertake "a complete re-evaluation of our own international position and of our own military budgets."

Miller Asks That Congress Release Grain

George H. Miller, Republican candidate for Congress in 11th congressional district today asked Congress and the U.S. Department of Agriculture for immediate release of surplus grains and other assistance for farmers in drought stricken areas of the 11th District and other parts of Missouri. Following is the text of a letter written to Ezra T. Benson, Secretary of Agriculture, Senator Allen J. Ellender, chairman of the Senate agriculture committee and Congressman Harold D. Cooley, chairman of the House agriculture committee.

"Gentlemen: "Many of the counties in the 11th Congressional District of Missouri and other parts of Missouri have experienced extreme drought for many months. Pastures are deficient and grain crops that have been planted are not coming up. Feed is becoming scarce and the general situation is approaching the critical stage.

"Immediate steps should be taken by the Department of Agriculture and by Congress, to release surplus grains at no cost to these farmers, and to grant other material assistance.

"If the Department of Agriculture does not have sufficient authority under existing laws to release surplus grains for immediate use of the farmers, and at no cost to them, then Congress should be asked to grant such authority.

"Many grain crops have been planted with proper applications of fertilizer. Much of this planting and fertilization has been done with borrowed money. Without immediate and substantial rainfall many of the farmers will either lose their savings or go broke. This should not happen. The Congress and the Department of Agriculture should see that immediate and proper steps are taken to relieve the situation."

Fires

The engineer on Missouri Pacific Passenger Train No. 9 about 4:45 a.m. Sunday, in pulling out of Sedalia, saw a burning car near the crossing on the State Fair Blvd., radioed back to the railroad station and the agent notified the Sedalia police.

Police investigated and notified the county fire department, which made the run. The car had been stolen from Miss Jean E. Rice, 421 South Lamine, and had been abandoned in a ditch just north of the crossing and set on fire.

Before firemen arrived, the fire had gutted the interior of the car. The heat was so intense it melted the carburetor and the Ford emblem on the hood of the vehicle. A set of laddies' golf clubs was also destroyed in the fire.

The car was towed to Bacon's Service Station.

A short in a motor on a refrigerator at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Craig, on Route 5, the Beaman Road, caused fire about 12 noon Sunday. The county fire department made a run to the residence. The only damage was to the motor.

Educating The Litterbugs...

Four hundred truck loads of trash were hauled away from Sedalia properties during Clean-up Week, a good indicator townspeople are taking seriously the annual promotion to keep their premises clean.

However, the clean-up job is never ended. Many property owners make it a point to keep their grounds clean by a minimum of continuous effort rather than clean-up just once a year. Accumulations of debris during the summer are gradual and not so noticeable, but even so keeping pace each month with a clean-up program is to be recommended.

That's one way to keep abreast of the Keep America Beautiful campaign in which Sedalia Garden Clubs are endeavoring to discourage the litter bugs. Mrs. J. W. Boger, chairman of the litter bug campaign in Sedalia, is rightfully appealing for cooperation and devoting considerable time to an educational campaign locally.

Right now school season's end is approaching but there might be a last minute effort by the school teachers to stress the importance of pupils keeping in mind that they can contribute a great deal to keeping America and Sedalia cleaner during the vacation season by not becoming litter bugs.

One of the most difficult things to do is teach an adult new tricks. If he is a litter bug it's next to impossible to change his ways. Ask any wife.

So it seems the real approach to educating Americans not to be a nation of litterbugs should be in school room programs from kindergarten on up thru the grades. Cut-outs, art, essays offer an avenue for indoctrination of the pliable minds, not just one time during the school term but several times — particularly in early Spring.

This program in the schools already has been inspirational to thousands of pupils where it is enlivened with instructive animation rather than with a wooden or dull approach. Furthermore teachers with originality likely would get more response from the children than parents whose only method of teaching children to clean-up and keep clean is by the shouting and yelling routine which simply builds up resistance rather than cooperation from the youngsters.

Washington Merry-Go-Round—

$5,000 From Keck to Ike's Jan. Dinner

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Now that the venerable and revered Senator George of Georgia has announced his intention to retire from the Senate and become Eisenhower's ambassador to NATO, an important, hitherto undisclosed incident involving Senator George and the White House can be revealed.

Senator George recently wound up the chairmanship of a special committee to investigate the $2,500 offered to Sen. Francis Case (R., S.D.) during the natural gas battle on behalf of Howard B. Keck of Superior Oil.

During the investigation, the committee unearthed another check for twice that money from the same H. B. Keck, this one given to the Eisenhower dinner right in the middle of the Senate's gas debate. Unlike Senator Case, who returned the $2,500, the $5,000 from Keck was not returned by the Republican National Committee nor by the White House.

Considerable pressure was brought on Senator George's committee by the White House not to make this contribution public. Some committee members felt that since the gift to Case came from exactly the same H. B. Keck and Superior Oil, the larger gift to the Eisenhower dinner should be disclosed in order to indicate the general pattern of the gas lobby.

Why Ike Vetoed There was also some Senate resentment that President Eisenhower in his veto message should impugn the morality of the Senate at the same time that his own money-raisers had received twice as much as Senator Case rejected, right in the middle of the gas debate.

It was fear that the Senate committee might make public the Keck check that materially influenced the President's decision to veto the gas bill.

In the end, however, Senator George did not make the $5,000 contribution to the Eisenhower dinner public. He and the committee decided they should stick close to the question of the $2,500 offered by Keck to Senator Case, and not go into the Keck gift to more important people.

Keck's check for $5,000, dated Jan. 10, 1956, was on the City National Bank of Houston. It was check number 951 and was signed "H. B. Keck" from his office on the "7th Floor, Edison Building, Los Angeles, Calif." This address was printed on one end of the check.

It will be interesting to see whether the new Lobbying Committee, headed by Senator McClellan of Arkansas, which is supposed to probe all phases of lobbying, will now make public the Keck check.

Debt to Quaker Oats

It looks as if the Ike administration has about paid up its debt to Quaker Oats. At any rate the debt should be paid up after this week.

Quaker Oats executives were big campaign contributors to Eisenhower in 1952. Afterward, R. Douglas Stuart, chairman of Quaker Oats, was for a time U.S. Ambassador to Canada, while Don Lourie, president of Quaker Oats, served for a time as Deputy Under Secretary of State. Milton Eisenhower, in turn, was a director of Quaker Oats.

On top of this, Vice President Nixon last week paid off another campaign debt by presenting a medal for distinguished dog heroism to "Snooks," a seven-year old mongrel picked as the dog hero of the year.

The medal was called the "Ken-L-Ration

Medal," and was, of course, the public relations brainchild of the Quaker Oats Company. Ken-L-Ration is a Quaker Oats product.

Campaign Funds

Campaign contributions still carry weight in the backstage operations of the U.S. government, even though the furor over the proffered $2,500 to Senator Case has simmered down.

Senator McClellan of Arkansas didn't bother to dig into it, but North American Airlines not only retained Murray Chotiner, campaign manager and closest political adviser of Vice President Nixon, but also contributed to the GOP campaign.

When Chotiner was before McClellan's subcommittee, he got such kid-glove treatment that he was not asked a single, solitary question about the large campaign funds he had raised; and when he said he had gone to the White House on two occasions, no senator even took the trouble to ask him who were the clients on behalf of whom he wanted to exert a little White House influence.

If the senators had taken off their kid gloves and dug into this case, however, they would have found that both Stanley Weiss, head of North American Airlines, and R. R. Hart contributed to Republican national or state committees.

Campaign Managers

Campaign managers also have a way of influencing what a senator does or says.

Take the case of Joe McCarthy, one of the most vocal members of the world's greatest debating body. Joe is inclined to hold forth on all sorts of subjects, and at one time started to declaim on the subject of the cheese scandal.

Cheese comes from Wisconsin, and Joe has been urging not 90 per cent, but 100 per cent parity to help Wisconsin dairy farmers. It was only natural, therefore, for him to raise Cain about the $2,000,000 windfall profit that the cheese processors made out of Ezra Benson at the expense of the farmer and the taxpayer.

Suddenly, however, Joe shut up. Absolutely nothing has been heard from him for months about the cheese scandal.

This could be the reason why:

McCarthy's campaign manager for re-election in 1952 was Steve Miller, president of the Central Cheese Co., of Marshfield, Wis.

That company received $24,885 from Secretary Benson on the cheese deal that McCarthy originally was so excited about.

'Operation Birthright'

Magistrate J. Randall Creel in St. Augustine, Fla., has a new approach to solving juvenile delinquency. He ordered a young defendant to write a song about his home town which would make the Spaniards who founded that old city as popular as Davy Crockett.

The lad was charged with disorderly conduct in the adolescent court and was arrested for being abusive to a patrolman. The magistrate suggested that the patrolman help the lad find an old Spanish folk melody (because the accused said the patrolman arrested him because he was Spanish) and that he look up the Spanish historical background to get material for the song.

The idea seems to be working because the lad asked the patrolman if the magistrate had a preference for ballads, rumbas, or sambas.

Who knows but what a new hit tune may come out of St. Augustine, Fla., by a young man named Alvarez collaborating with a patrolman named Sullivan?

At the very least, a new three-way friendship has been born and a potential juvenile's wasted energy and talent directed into a productive channel.

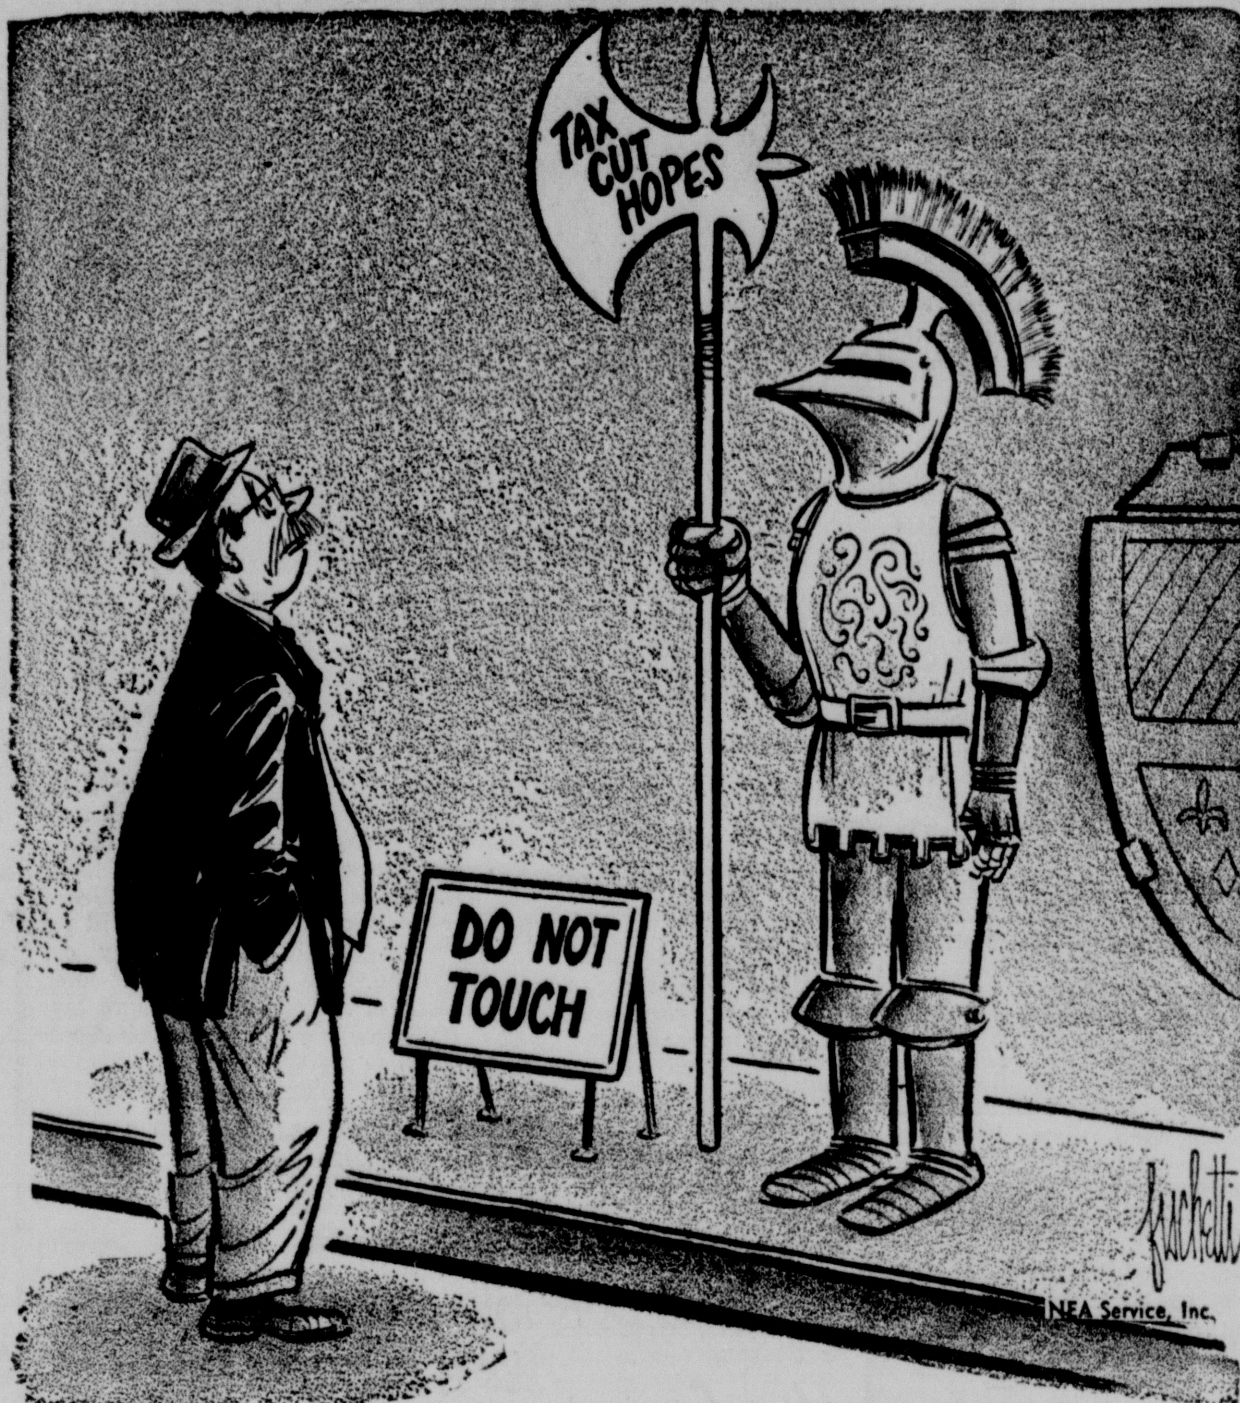

The usual railroad hopper car holds 60 tons of coal, but super cars now on the rails hold more than 100 tons.

The World Today—

Hatkin Case Points Up Security Delay

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sidney Hatkin was lucky. Left hanging in midair by the government—jobless and under a cloud—he found someone to fight his case in public. Then he got his job back.

It's doubtful he would have been reinstated if he hadn't asked the help of former Sen. Harry P. Cain and if Cain hadn't made his case public.

Hatkin's case points up what appear to be unnecessary delay and carelessness for individuals by the government in clearing and reinstating — or firing — government employees suspended as security risks.

Hatkin, 40, married and with children, was suspended as a security risk in February 1955 by the Air Force, where he worked as a civilian statistician. In April 1955 he was given a three-day hearing by a security board.

It took the Air Force from then until Saturday to decide whether it was safe to let Hatkin return to work. It did so only after Cain, Washington Republican and member of the government's Subversive Activities Control Board, made a speech about Hatkin's troubles.

Except for a few weeks, Hatkin could not get a job during the 14 months of his suspension. He hadn't been fired as a security risk but he hadn't been cleared either. He was in a state of suspension.

Looking Backward...

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Mrs. Louella Craig, 2500 South Lafayette, wife of a blacksmith helper at the MKT shops, gave birth to her 14th child at Bothwell Hospital. The mother was 42 years old.

In connection with commencement week at Smith-Cotton High School, two senior plays were presented, "Listen In on the Campus" and "Miss Somebody Else."

Charles T. Kelk, one of the founders of the Kelk Carriage Works on South Osage, died at his home in Paola, Kan.

L. H. Archias, president of the Archias Seed Store Corp., was in Warrensburg at a meeting of representatives of fertilizer companies.

Adolph Riecke and daughter, Mrs. Emma Dow, Long Beach, Calif., former Sedalians, were here for a visit with relatives and to attend graduation exercises of their granddaughter and niece, Miss Ella Dow, senior in State Teachers' College, Warrensburg.

FORTY YEARS AGO

John Turner purchased the eight-room residence property of John H. Bickelman at 14th and Carr.

M. B. Coleman, former Sedalia businessman, representing a Kansas City Creditors Association, was here on a brief business visit.

1916

Roy Hinkle, delegate to the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen's convention at Detroit, left for that city to attend its sessions being accompanied by Mrs. Hinkle, R. T. Phelan and Mrs. Phelan, she being a delegate from the ladies' auxiliary, were also to attend.

On Saturday Secretary of the Air Force Quarles announced he had offered Hatkin a job with the Air Force doing nonsensitive work—not near secrets. Hatkin hopes for full clearance later.

Why did it take a year after the board heard the charges against him for action in his case? The Air Force, through a Pentagon public relations man, says it takes time to handle these cases.

In a speech in New York a week ago Saturday, Cain talked of Hatkin's case without mentioning his name. Hatkin's identity was soon learned.

Cain, one of the most severe critics of President Eisenhower's program for getting security risks out of the government, cited Hatkin as an example of what he said happens to hundreds of suspended employees.

He said he knows of 416 government employees who were suspended as risks, and later reinstated, but only after some of them had waited an average of eight to nine months for a final verdict.

Cain declared this long delay for people left them in an agony of spirit about their future and very often jobless until the moment of reinstatement.

It is doubtful Hatkin would have been reinstated without Cain's open statement of his case. Last February a Russian employed in the Soviet Embassy contacted Hatkin after the latter had put an advertisement in a newspaper, seeking a job. The Russian asked him to gather information about the aircraft industry.

Hatkin notified the FBI at that time but two weeks ago—a week before Cain made his speech—the Air Force notified Hatkin it had tentatively decided to fire him as a security risk.

New Headgear for Highway Patrol

The Missouri Highway Patrol will adopt new headgear for the summer months—the first change in hats for the patrol for several years.

State patrol headquarters in Jefferson City said the summer hat will be a blue, Panama-straw western style. It will replace the familiar cavalry trooper type felt hat which patrolmen have worn winter and summer for the last few years, but which have proved too hot for summer use.

Capt. K. K. Johnson, head of the patrol's service division, said the exact date for the change over to the summer straw hats has not been set.

Wants to Abolish Passenger Trains

The Rock Island Railroad wants to abolish its last passenger trains in Missouri and replace them with a chicken hauling service five months out of the year.

The railroad seeks state authority to discontinue its last remaining passenger service between Kansas City and Eldon. In its place the line would set up a chicken transporting service for hatcheries in the area.

The railroad proposed to continue to transport chicks marked for parcel post or express shipment. It would take chicks destined to or through Kansas City from Eldon and points in between to Windsor by truck or bus. Then a freight car would be picked up at Windsor to deliver the chicks to Kansas City. The chicken run would be operated every day of the week except Friday during the months of February to June.

The Rock Island said its passenger service was operating at "a very heavy loss." A hearing on the railroad's proposal is set for June 5 before the state public service commission in Jefferson City.

A New State Park

The state park board has announced its intention to open the 28th state park in Missouri — a 2,000 acre area on the southwest shores of Lake Wappapello in Wayne County.

The board intends to license the acreage from the corps of engineers which administers the area around Lake Wappapello. The board is expected to finally approve the park site at its June 1 meeting.

Joseph Jaegers, chief of parks, said the new site is all in Wayne County, centered around the Allison peninsula on the southwest shores of the lake. He said the new park is being set up to serve the boathouse section of Missouri and the area from Poplar Bluff on down.

Public Cafeteria

A public cafeteria will be opened in the Jefferson State building in Jefferson City in about two months by two blind persons.

The cafeteria will be operated by "Bud" Pohl and Robert Botts under the supervision of the division of welfare and the business opportunities for Missouri blind program of the Lions Club.

H. F. Hallam of the welfare division said the cafeteria will seat 100 persons and will serve the noon meal and coffee during the day. He said about six employees will work at the cafeteria — including several sighted persons. However, both managers are blind, he said. Pohl has operated the refreshment stand in the state office building in Jefferson City for several years.

Hallam said the division of wel-

Swedish Icebreaker Keeps Crunching In Worst Season

By WALT DEAR

ABOARD THE SWEDISH ICEBREAKER AKTE—While spring comes to America, Swedes struggle against one of the worst ice seasons here in postwar history.

"When you're out here you think that spring will never come again," said Captain-Commander Karl Sjoedahl, vice director of Sweden's ice service, as the Akte plowed her way through two feet of ice. On board this steam-propelled ship, we could understand Sjoedahl's remark as we saw only ice and snow and buttoned our coat up tight in the freezing weather despite the blinding rays of the sun.

Our mission was to clear a waterway inside of Stockholm's archipelago for commercial traffic. Sweden's 700 mile east coast economic life depends on the ability of three government icebreakers to clear the channels so that oil and coal, for instance, can continue to nourish industry and home. Last year the iceboats gave assists to over 350 ships, a figure that will be much higher this season.

For the sixty man crew of the Akte, winter begins in mid October and ends as late as the effect of the cold and ice. In December, working in the far north, they saw sunshine for only three hours a day. One job called for a steady night and day operation for 28 days. Yet the gruelling ice-cracking work agrees with them. "Keeping on the straight and narrow path inside the archipelago is what we like the most. When we have to get out in the open sea, then it's like hell."

He meant that the archipelago waterways generally only have a depth of about two or three feet. Because of its sharply curved bow, the Akte actually sits on the ice, at first contact, and crushes it by the very weight of the ship as she churns forward. A forward propeller, first introduced by an American in 1877 and now widely adopted, further pulverizes the ice and sends it astern. When the Akte has to chop its way through the Baltic Sea, the job is harder. Ice may be packed up under water as much as thirty feet. To solve the problem, she uses a ballast tank system which has the effect of making the Akte "shake, rattle and roll" right through the ice.

This heavy packed ice has stranded many a ship. Last month, a small vessel of 350 tons steamed out to sea during an ice wave. Where she went or what happened no one may ever find out. Her crew of five disappeared. "We warned the skipper," says Sjoedahl, "What may have happened is a cruel reminder of the power of the ice. Such a ship stuck in the heavy layers is unable to back away or shear loose from the ice. In octopus fashion, the ice wraps its chunky fingers around the vessel until the ship takes on the appearance of an iceberg and all hope of rescue is abandoned."

Incidents such as these are rare because Swedes respect the fickleness of the winter sea. "An American once wrote, 'Ice is where you find it,' and he was 100 per cent right," commented Capt. Sjoedahl.

As the Akte continued to grind itself through the water a few island dwellers skied out on the ice to wave to us. Though the Stockholm islands are summer hideaways for many of the city's 750,000 people, only a few are populated in winter. Frequently, when the ice comes, they hop fare would supervise the operation of the cafeteria and the B.O.M.B. would provide the supervision of bookkeeping, accounting and sales tax computation.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.

Through recent years the word "CARE" has stared at us from car cards and billboards. We have been urged to give thought to the needs and living conditions of unknown human beings in the down-trodden countries of Europe. We have been urged not only to consider their plight, but also to care about their deprivations.

The word "care" has a very personal connotation. It seems to recognize individuals rather than masses of population or crowds of people. A sense of care challenges us to accept a personal responsibility for helping people we know or want to know.

In this program we have sent gifts to individuals who have appreciated the personal touch.

Many friendships and bonds have grown up between widely separated people because of the Care program. That is as it should be. We must care about and for others, not as nations but as brothers and as fellow children of God.

Here, too, in our own nation where there is so much indifference we must care about others. We must know how people affect us and how we affect them. But even more than merely knowing, we must care how we affect and influence other people.

When we care about people, we do something about our relationships, and about our own conduct. We become more friendly and more productive of the better things of life when we "love our neighbors as ourselves."

Will Plant Record Soybeans Acreage

One of Bog Problems Is Control Of Weeds; Several Ways Listed

By BILL MURPHY
MU Extension Field Crops Specialist

It looks like Missouri farmers will be planting a record acreage of soybeans again this year—probably more than 2,000,000 acres. And one of the big problems on many fields will be weed control.

We still must rely pretty largely on cultural practices to control weeds in soybeans even though there are some chemical weed killers that show promise.

One of the best ways to control weeds in soybean fields is to destroy two or three crops of weeds before planting the beans. Since most fields were plowed early this year we have a better than usual chance to do this by disking to destroy the first crop of weeds, waiting until more germinate, and then disking again. On weedy fields, destroying these weeds can be much more important than planting early, especially since tests have shown that beans planted in Central Missouri in late May and early June can be expected to yield as much over a period of years as early planted beans. Soybeans planted after the ground is warm germinate quicker and so tend to get ahead of weeds.

Most farmers are growing soybeans in rows so that weeds can be controlled by cultivation. Probably the most important piece of cultivation equipment is a rotary hoe. It can be used before beans come up and until they are about six to eight inches tall. If rains form a soil crust before the beans come up, the rotary hoe should be used to break or stir this crust.

However, if plants are just breaking through the ground and are in the "crotch" stage, this rotary hoeing should be delayed because the plants are tender and easily broken at that time. The rotary hoe needs to be operated at high speed and when the soil is dry enough to pulverize well. If the rotary hoe is handled properly it will destroy only one to five per cent of the soybean plants not enough to affect yields.

A spike tooth harrow can be used as a substitute for a rotary hoe, although it may damage a few more beans. Harrowing should be across the rows. It shouldn't be done in the early morning. Wait till the plants have toughened up under the sun.

A couple of cultivations with a regular cultivator equipped with shallow sweeps will probably be necessary after beans are more than six to eight inches tall.

Herbicides that show promise in controlling weeds in soybeans are costly to use and are not recommended except in extremely weedy situations. OIPC and Dinitros have been pretty thoroughly tested and can be used as pre-emergence sprays, although occasionally there may be some damage to germination. CDAA is a new material that looks promising but it hasn't been thoroughly tested. To cut down on expense, these materials can be sprayed in bands over the rows rather than as an overall treatment.

Feed Grain Price Rise Is Forecast

In the feed grain market, prices are expected to strengthen during the next 30 days.

Firmer feed grain prices during recent months can be attributed to the large quality of last year's feed crops going under price supports and the declining market receipts. Greatest price increase among grains has been in corn. On April 12, the price of No. 2 yellow corn at Kansas City was $1.59. That's 28 cents higher than it was when it hit the seasonal low on Nov. 8.

University economists say free corn is getting scarce in Missouri but the price in surplus corn areas is still too high to allow corn to be shipped south to non-commercial counties. This situation of cheaper corn in the non-commercial counties has been noticeable all season. There has been some movement of corn from Missouri to the Omaha area, partly due to the short crop there and partly due to higher support prices in the nearby surplus producing areas of Iowa.

The Commodity Credit Corporation's policy of buying up storable corn when government held non-storable corn is put on the market will prevent depressing the market too much.

The relatively large percentage of feed grain stocks in the price support program is expected to have a strengthening influence on prices in the next 30 days.

Premium Prices From Producing Certified Seed

Any type of price premium for a farm product sounds good these days. And producing certified seed is one way to get premium prices.

Lloyd Cavanah, member of the University of Missouri field crops department, says that while it costs more to produce certified seed . . . the better selling price more than pays for the extra labor and expense.

Cavanah is also secretary of the Missouri Seed Improvement Association. The association is made up of Missouri farmers who produce pure seed of different Missouri crops under rules set up by the group. They then are entitled to sell the seed as certified seed.

According to Cavanah, the association is interested in getting the membership of anyone who would like to produce certified seed over a period of years and be a dependable source of seed. If you would like to learn more about producing certified seed or about the Seed Improvement Association, write to Lloyd Cavanah, Missouri Seed Improvement Association, Waters Hall, Columbia, Missouri.

Good Stock, Culling Vital In Beef Breeding

Good foundation stock and a program of continuous culling are necessary to breed superior lines of beef cattle.

Animal husbandrymen at the University of Missouri say these requirements are pointed up by research being carried out by the U.S. Department of Agriculture at its livestock experiment station in Montana. Selection and line breeding over a period of 20 years has enabled researchers there to improve many characteristics in individuals and specific lines of cattle.

This selective breeding has resulted in better weaning weights, larger daily gains, and heavier feed lot weights. Other characteristics such as milking ability and carcass quality are also being improved in the breeding research work at the Montana station.

Characteristics like milking ability and ability to gain cannot be judged accurately by selecting animals for thickness of fleshing, body type, and uniformity. The livestock specialists say that although these factors are still considered useful in selection work, they don't tell the whole story.

Fertilization Of Soybeans Is Different

By C. M. CHRISTY
MU Extension Soils Specialist

Soybeans have some peculiar growth processes and characteristics which have a significant bearing on how to best fertilize them. Naturally fertile soils have long been recognized as most desirable for high yields. Requirements for mineral fertility are quite large. A 25-bushel soybean crop removes as much phosphorus as 90 bushels of corn and as much potassium as 150 bushel corn. Fertilizer increases yields in some years while in other years little response occurs.

Soybeans have a different fruiting habit than most crops. The plant will bloom and set pods during a long period of the growing season under favorable conditions. In such years, fertilizer used in connection with the crop is likely to give little response. On the other hand, fertilizers will aid yields considerably in seasons unfavorable for adequate release of nutrients from the soil.

On highly fertile soils such as the heavy clay gumbos, a slow but adequate release of nutrients is quite satisfactory for soybeans but poor for corn which needs lots of fertility in the short period of silking, tasseling, and ear development.

Since the kind of a season can't be foretold the safest move is to correct deficiencies of the soil, using soil tests as a guide. The soybean root system is fine and very limited. Thus a high level of mineral fertility is required to assure adequate nutrition in whatever zone of soil the roots may be growing. This is one of the principle reasons that small amounts of fertilizer frequently give little or no yield response.

Lime is the number one requirement of soybeans and usually results in about a five bushel increase in yield. The soybean, like other legumes, requires a good supply of calcium and near neutral acidity condition. Inoculation of the seed is highly important.

Phosphorus and potassium are likewise extremely important to soybeans. Lime, phosphate, and potash are most effective when plowed down. Over a period of years phosphate and potash soil treatments can be expected to increase yields by three to five bushels per acre. But in some specific year no increase may be realized immediately following the soil treatments.

Occasionally the use of nitrogen on soybeans shows up well. But, as a rule, on fairly productive soils the slow release of nitrogen from organic matter or a green manure crop will adequately supply the plants. Favorable yield response frequently occurs from the residual effect of a heavy nitrogen application on a preceding crop.

Soybeans, erratic in response to direct fertilization, give best yield increases to a soil fertility pro-

Poultry Lice Multiply Rapidly In Warm Weather

Poultry lice may not be mathematically inclined, but they can sure multiply rapidly during warm weather. It will pay the poultryman to check his flock occasionally this summer for both lice and mites. If either of them is found, treatment should be started soon before they have a chance to rob his pocketbook. Actually, that is what happens when a flock becomes heavily infested.

For lice control, use lindane at the rate of two tablespoons per pint of water and painting the roosts. As the hens perch on the roost during the night, heat from the body will change the lindane to a gaseous form and kill the lice. This treatment should be repeated in seven to ten days to kill the lice that hatch in the meantime. Sodium fluoride as a dust or dip may also be used for lice control. It is very effective but has one disadvantage to those with a large flock in that each individual bird must be handled.

Since mites hide in cracks and crevices in the house during the day and come out to feed at night, the control materials are applied to the house instead of to the chickens. Mites may be eliminated by thoroughly cleaning the house and spraying house and "furniture" with DDT. Use one quart of 25 per cent DDT emulsifiable concentrate in one gallon of water.

Cape buffaloes are Africa's most deadly and vindictive animals. Wounded, they have been known to ambush hunters and, not content with killing their victims, they trample them with ax-sharp hooves.

Four brothers tell about their 100 years with the telephone company

by Don Davis,
Telephone News Reporter

In this day of people constantly on the move, it's refreshing to note four brothers who have worked for the same company a total of 100 years. But that's the story of the Brandenburg brothers and the telephone company.

It all started with Les—at 52 he's the oldest of the four—who joined the company in 1923. Brother Leon followed suit in 1929, Sam in 1935 and "kid" brother Bud a year later.

WAITED FOR OPPORTUNITY

What was the big attraction? To a man, the Brandenburgs say they were impressed by the people they knew who worked for the telephone company, the up-to-date working conditions and the company's "up-from-the-ranks" promotion policy. Apparently, the only thing needed was the opportunity. When it came, they jumped at the chance. Sam Brandenburg recalls that maybe he was too anxious. "I showed up for work a day before I was scheduled to start," he says, smiling.

ENTHUSIASM GROWS

The brothers seem to be more enthusiastic about their work now than when they started with the company—if that's possible. Listening to the Brandenburgs talk at length about the advantages of working for the telephone company, you can appreciate just how proud they are of their "outfit." Seems that their enthusiasm grows through the years. Les and Leon belong to the company's Pioneer organization, made up of employees with 21 or more years of service. Sam and Bud are looking forward to joining the Pioneers, soon.

The Brandenburg brothers talk to Don Davis about their telephone careers. Les Brandenburg (left) is the oldest in point of service. He joined the company in 1923, was followed by brothers Leon (1929), Bud (1936), and Sam (1935).

THE OLD DAYS

The Brandenburgs like to reminisce about the old days now and then, talk about the changes that have taken place in telephone service. It's pretty tough to top Les, though. After all, he's the old-timer of the group.

The brothers spend a lot of their spare time together, too. They own their own homes, located within a few blocks of each other. At the slightest excuse, the entire family—wives, children and grandchildren—get together. The brothers even played on the same baseball team when they were youngsters.

EYEING A RECORD

As for the future—the four brothers say that will have to take care of itself. But, they are looking to the grand total of 175 years of telephone service they'll have by the time young Bud retires. Then, there's the chance of more Brandenburgs on the company roster in the years to come. After all, the youngsters at home are hearing some mighty fine things about the place where their dads and uncles work.

1956 Farm and Home Planning Association Year Will Commence on July 1

There Are Now 43 Families In Membership

By ESTEL HUDSON
Assistant County Agent

The 1956 Farm and Home Planning Association year will terminate July 1, 1956, and the 1956 Association year will commence.

A lot of people still have only a vague idea of what is meant by the term Farm and Home Planning. It could be summarized by saying it is the planning and putting into operation by the farm family a combination of practices adapted to the individual farm which leads to more efficient production, conservation of soil and other resources, higher income and a more satisfactory living for the family.

It is a part of the over-all extension program.

There are 43 families in the Association at the present. These 43 families were divided into nine small groups, ranging from three to six families in a group, according to communities or townships in which they lived.

A series of five meetings was held with each group. Phases that were discussed and planned were farmstead arrangement, farm records, family living plans, home improvement, crops and livestock.

Also, a series of county wide dinner meetings were conducted. Different groups volunteered to take the responsibility of making the necessary arrangements for these meetings. They usually arranged for one of the specialists from the University to be the guest speaker. Topics discussed at these meetings were labor saving devices, farm management, crops, foods and nutrition and landscaping.

There seems to be some misunderstanding about the cost and time of getting the plans into operation. A plan is developed so that the family may clearly see the goals, but the practices are worked out gradually. It may take five years or probably longer to get all the plans in operation.

Then the costs and time of getting the plans into operation depends entirely upon what the family wants to do. Such a plan is always individual and the family alone decides what will be done and the time most suitable for accomplishing their goals and objectives.

A Farm and Home Planning program lays the foundation for a practical, progressive approach to the problems of the farm and home. This long-time view aids in doing "first things first."

At their first meeting each group elected a chairman to represent them. One of their duties is to help maintain membership. These chairmen have some membership application blanks so if you are interested in joining the Association then you might contact one of the chairmen or your extension office.

The chairmen of the groups by townships are: Prairie, Cloyce, Wilson; Sedalia, Mrs. Ernest Schlobohm; Lake Creek, Mrs. Rudy Rehmer; Flat Creek, Chester Wissman; Green Ridge, Floyd Egbert; Hughesville, Jerry Conway; Longwood, Faris Zimmerman; Bowling Green, John Sneed, Sr.

National Farm Safety Week Set July 22-28

The date for the National Farm Safety Week this year has been set for July 22 to 28. One point to be stressed during the Farm Safety Week will be safety habits when using farm tractors. More than a thousand farm people are killed each year in tractor accidents. One study shows that one-third of the tractor fatalities occurred in highway accidents. Another survey revealed that 16 per cent of the victims were children under ten years of age.

Nitrogen On Pasture

Carl Raines of the Heaths Creek township called me the other day to report on some ammonium nitrate that he had put on blue grass pasture in early April. It was really starting to show up, he said. I suggested that he fence off a small area on the treated and untreated areas so that we could do some harvesting a little later. He remarked, "I was afraid that was what you would say."

Anyway I was able to get by Carl's place Friday morning and he took me back to the pasture. He used about 120 pounds per acre and it wasn't hard to tell where the nitrate had been spread. Part of it was spread between terraces and other just part way. The fertilized part was a blue color similar to oats or wheat while the rest was a rather light green. Also the grass seemed much thicker and of an even height with nitrate. The other was short, thin and very uneven.

Near the middle of the area Carl had marked off two spots with iron posts, boards and barbed wire. They were in the shape of a triangle and about ten feet each way. We will try to harvest these areas about the first of June.

It was hard to tell if the steers were grazing more on the fertilized part or not. However, the fenced triangle there had much more trampled grass around it than the one on the unfertilized part.

Carl usually has his blue grass stripped so we hope to have some more comparison figures at that time.

Band Seeding of Alfalfa

On the way back to the blue grass pasture we stopped to look over a good sized field of alfalfa the Carl had seeded last fall. Of special interest was the even stand and the lack of skips and washes.

The fact that the field was terraced answered much of the erosion question. However, the seeding was ahead of two very hard rains last fall and normally some of that seed would have drifted and piled up if it had been broadcast.

Carl said he had fixed up a home made "band seeder" with garden hose on his drill and used that for his seeding. The theory of the band seeding is that the seed will be deposited right over the fertilizer and in just enough of a groove that the chains will cover it there. The garden hose brings the seed from the spout of the grass seeder.

We saw another alfalfa seeding at Bob and Raymond Higgins while on the pasture tour that was planted similarly and doing equally well. The system was developed by the Agricultural Research Service in 1951 and has been modified some since.

Research folks feel that it will work equally well with small legume and grasses seeded with nurse crops. By depositing the seeds over the fertilizer the plants will get off to a good start and can compete successfully with the nurse crop.

The decision to call the state-wide meeting was made at a recent meeting of the board of directors in Columbia. At this meeting, the livestock men considered the problem of how to adjust production of pork and beef raised in this country to our needs and how to reduce the importation of meat from foreign countries.

The group was also critical of policies which allow western areas to bring additional land into production at government expense. This land competes with farms in the midwest being paid by the government to take land out of production.

The urgency of these problems, including the need for more effective meat promotion and adjustment to market demands, prompted the board to call the June 16 state-wide meeting. Because of current dissatisfaction with hog and cattle prices, some of the directors indicated they thought the meeting would draw a big attendance.

May Adjust Wheat Total Until June 1

Farmers with a 1956 wheat acreage in excess of their farm wheat allotments may take action until June 1 to adjust their wheat acreage into compliance, according to C. A. Staples, chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

However, any wheat still standing on this date will be classified as "wheat."

Wheat acreage in excess of the farm allotment may be plowed under as green manure, pastured, or cut for hay. Any of these methods used to reduce the wheat acreage must be carried out in such a way that the wheat will not reach maturity. Farmers with allotments of less than 15 acres who now have more than 15 acres of wheat may use the same methods to reduce their wheat acreage to avoid a marketing quota penalty.

Mr. Staples reminds wheat growers that a farm with a wheat allotment of 15 acres or less may produce as much as 15 acres of wheat without being subject to marketing quota penalties. However, if such farms produce more than 15 acres of wheat, the marketing quota penalty is calculated on the difference between the allotments and the actual acreage harvested. The marketing quota penalty is $1.07 per bushel, which is 45 per cent of the May 1 parity price.

On farms with allotments of more than 15 acres, the normal production from any acreage in excess of the farm allotments is subject to the marketing quota penalty.

Regardless of the size of the allotment, Chairman Staples emphasizes, wheat from any farm on which the farm allotment is exceeded is not eligible for price support.

New Folder Describes How to Cut Chicken

Another new folder published recently by the Missouri Agricultural Extension Service shows how to cut chicken.

Using both pictures and written instructions, the folder gives step by step directions on cutting broilers and fryers for broiling or barbecuing. It also tells how to cut broilers and fryers by the piece and how to cut up hens for stewing and other uses.

Requirements Are Given—

Many Farmers Will Be Able To Get SS Checks Shortly

By STANLEY SPANGLER
MU Agricultural Economist

Many farm operators who came under social security for the first time in 1955 are now, or soon will be eligible to sign up to receive monthly social security checks.

You must meet these requirements: be a farm operator; have paid social security tax on $400 or more net income or $800 or more gross income in 1955, and be 65 years old or older.

If you meet these requirements you are eligible to sign up now for payments provided you can show to the satisfaction of the social security representative that you have already or will have $400 net income or $800 gross income or more in 1956. If it appears that your net income will be more than $1200, payments will be suspended until the end of the year.

You must retire if you are over 65 or under 72 years of age before receiving full payment. What is retirement? Simply this if your net income is $1200 per year or less you are retired. This net income must be income which comes under the social security coverage. Interest on investments, rent, and any other income not directly earned by you does not count.

If your income is above $1200 or under $2081, you are considered partially retired. For each $80 or fraction of $80 income over the $1200 limit you will lose one monthly payment. If your earnings are above $2080 you are not eligible to receive any payments. If you are 72 years old or older, this $1200 limit does not apply.

You may say "I don't want to retire right now. I want to farm and make all I can this year so my payments which are figured on 1955 and 1956 earnings will be higher."

You do want to keep your earnings as high as possible in 1956 but you can still sign up for payments. If your earnings are over $2080, you simply won't get any checks but you won't lose anything. Should your income happen to be under $2081, you would be eligible for payments.

Steel Ball Idea Proves Erskine Right

BROOKLYN (AP) — They laughed when Carl Erskine decided to exercise his pitching hand by working with a steel ball.

Now practically the entire Brooklyn Dodgers' pitching staff is following the lead of the 29-year-old veteran who tossed the second no-hitter of his career Saturday when the Brooks defeated the New York Giants 3-0.

"I've been using the steel ball in hopes of relieving a tight muscle in my pitching shoulder," Erskine said today. "But the muscle still bothers me."

It was the tight muscle that had Erskine (and probably the Brooklyn brass) worried that his career might be finished. His record last year was 11-8, and he was a forgotten man in the Dodgers' World Series victory over the Yankees.

"So I went to the doctor and he told me to keep away from all sorts of exercise all winter," Erskine continued. "I did that, but when I got to spring training, it still bothered me."

"But I still couldn't get it completely loose. Now with the steel ball, I go through my entire motion in the hopes of pulling the tightness out."

He confessed, though, that the stiffness still is there, which probably accounts for the fact that his record to date is only 2-2.

"It didn't bother me as much against the Giants as it usually does," he said. "Meanwhile, I'm still going to use the steel balls. It's still too early to tell if they're going to help loosen the muscle."

A whole handful of pitchers have tossed two no-hitters in their major league tenures, but only Bob Feller, among the modern-day pitchers, has thrown three.

Game Is Warning To Notre Dame Foes

SOUTH BEND, Ind., (AP) — Here's a warning to Oklahoma, Michigan State, Southern Methodist, Navy, Southern Cal and those five other foes Notre Dame's football team plays next fall:

Terry Brennan's Fighting Irish may be young but they'll be awfully tough. This is the year of Irish rebuilding with only three 1955 regulars back. But Brennan apparently has some solid bricks for the rebuilding job.

No fewer than 13 potential sophomores from one of the best Irish freshman squads in years acted as though they knew what football was all about Saturday as the varsity beat the "old timers" 42-32 in their annual spring game.

Congressman Accuses Ezra Benson of Bias

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Rep. Edmundson (D-Okla.) says Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson "is sponsoring one kind of farm program for his native state of Utah and a much less beneficial program for the rest of the country."

Edmundson called Benson as "the Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde of the Eisenhower family" in a speech to a mock Democratic political convention at Washington University.

He cited price supports of 98 and 106 per cent of parity on such standard Utah crops as sugar beets and wool as evidence of what he termed Benson's "bias." Meanwhile, he declared, Republican pledges of 90 per cent price supports on other crops have been "completely abandoned without even an apology."

13 Players Are Named To Athletics

Locals Will Open Season on Sunday With K. C. Team

Thirteen players were selected from a field of 22 candidates for the Sedalia Athletic squad Sunday. Player-manager "Buddy" Thomas announced his choices immediately after the afternoon's training practice.

The Athletics will open the 1956 season with a home game against the Chestnut Inn club from Kansas City, Kan., next Sunday. Chestnut Inn is a member of the fast Jayhawk League which consists of the outstanding clubs in eastern Kansas.

Four pitchers are included in the selection. Joe Imhauser, considered the most consistent and reliable hurler in Sedalia for many previous seasons, is senior man on the staff. The slight righthander possesses a variety of pitches and is the author of numerous no-hit, no run games.

Bill Arnold and Bob Brown fill out the righthand throwing corps of the A's. Both got their start in local baseball with the American Legion nine and are considered outstanding moundsmen. Arnold relies primarily on his fast ball, while Brown uses a lot of breaking stuff. His curve ball is rated as one of the finest in Missouri semi-pro circles. Brown, as many fans will recall, pitched in the championship contest of the 1951 state semi-professional tournament for the Sedalia Whiz Kids and dropped a heart-breaking 1-0 decision to Mark Freeman, then of the Holcomb Cards. Freeman is now with the New York Yankees.

Gene Richardson, a slim left-hander with limited experience, rounds out the Athletic hurling. Richardson threw three good innings against the Whiteman Air-men in an exhibition game a week ago.

Jim "Salty" Schumaker, the lone catching candidate, handily won the receiving assignment. Don Broadus, slick fielding first baseman, beat out his competition for that position.

Other infielders winning squad spots were "Bones" Morgan, second sacker, Ralph Fall and "Buddy" Thomas, shortstops, "Sonny" Thomas, third baseman, Larry Vilmer and Ed Russell, both capable of infield and outfield duty.

Bill Dey, a fine hitter, was picked for the left field slot. Dey is the only experienced ball hawk on the squad, so both Vilmer and Russell probably will see most of their action from the outfield.

A large number of Athletic fans were on hand during the final heavy practice prior to the season's opener. They were treated with a long ball hitting exhibition by several Athletics. Eight pitches were riddled over the park barriers—partly because of the strong tail winds.

Little Bill Dey got the longest drive, a tremendous smash which bounded out of the park at the 381-foot mark in right-center field. "Salty" Schumaker, Bud Thomas, Ralph Fall, Larry Vilmer also cleared the fences.

Cards Draw First Blood In Trading

By JOE REICHLER

The Associated Press

Trader Frank Lane and the St. Louis Cardinals have drawn first blood in their big five-hurler trade with the Philadelphia Phillies.

Aided considerably by the pitching of Murry Dickson and Herman Wehmeier, the two right-handers acquired from the Phillies last Thursday, the Cardinals swept a double header from Chicago yesterday 3-2 and 14-7 to stay on the heels of the flying Milwaukee Braves.

The Braves continued their blistering early pace, overwhelming the Cincinnati Redlegs 15-0 and 6-1 to continue on top of the National League percentage-wise but they still trail the Redbirds by a half game thanks to Dickson and Wehmeier.

Dickson made his first start in his new uniform Sunday and pitched six-hit ball for 8 2-3 innings. In the opener, Ellis Kinder disposed of the last batter to insure the first triumph of the season for Dickson. Wehmeier, working in relief, hurled two scoreless rounds in the nightcap as the Cards overcame a 5-0 deficit.

The fine pitching by the two veterans came simultaneously with a poor exhibition by Harvey Hadix, one of the three pitchers Cards General Manager Lane turned over to the Phillies. The other two are Ben Flowers and Stu Miller. Hadix was bombed by Pittsburgh for six runs in less than six innings as the Pirates came from behind to defeat Philadelphia 11-9 in the first game. The second game was suspended in the eighth inning because of Pennsylvania's Sunday 6 p.m. curfew law with the Phillies leading 6-2.

Brooklyn's Dodgers swept the three-game series with New York, defeating the Giants 6-4 to climb into third place past the Redlegs. Duke Snider clouted a pair of homers, one coming with the bases full, to drive in five runs.

New York and Cleveland, running one-two in the American League, were held to splits leaving the Yankees still one game in front of the Indians. Baltimore rebounded from an 11-2 thrashing to defeat the league leaders 5-1. Kansas City ended Cleveland's four-game winning streak with a 5-2 triumph behind the four-hit pitching of Art Ditmar but the Tribe roared back with a 9-4 second game victory.

Chicago, in third place, picked up a half game on the leaders, thrashing the Detroit Tigers 8-1 for Billy Pierce's fourth triumph. Boston, in fourth place, defeated Washington 5-3 to salvage the finale of its three-game set with the Senators.

Missouri Valley Wins MAU's Annual Meet

FULTON, Mo., (AP) — Missouri Valley and Tarkio dominated the Missouri Collegiate Athletic Union's annual track meet here Saturday, with Missouri Valley taking a narrow triumph.

Valley won six first places and Tarkio captured five of the 16 events to finish with 66 7-10 and 61 points, respectively.

Drury won the conference golf championship with a team score of 636 for 36 holes. Westminster was second with 649.

FLEET-FOOTED — Duke's Dave Sime has bested the previous world's record for the 220-yard dash, making it in 20.1 seconds during Atlantic Coast Conference track events at Durham, N.C. He clipped one second off the 20.2 mark set by Mel Patton of Southern California in 1949. The Olympic prospect recently set a world's record for the 220-yard low hurdles with a 22.2. His next goal: the 100-yard laurels.

Texas Tech President Names Committee For Conference Meet

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)—Texas Tech starts today toward integration with the Southwest Conference.

President E. N. Jones of the big west Texas college, voted into the conference Saturday, will name a committee to meet with a similar group from the conference. The meeting will be held at Dallas next Sunday at which time preliminary steps will be taken toward making Tech the eighth member of the league.

Lubbock people still were celebrating the realization of a 30-year dream but Dewitt Weaver, the Tech athletic director who traveled countless miles and worked countless hours at getting Tech into the Southwest Conference, is out of town. He's recruiting athletes.

"We're going to need plenty of them," he had said. "The Southwest Conference is a tough league."

However, Tech may not start competing in any Southwest Conference sport soon. It can't possibly begin playing for the football championship until 1961 because it can't get on all schedules until that time.

CMSC Mules Retain MIAA Track Title And Win at Tennis, Too

WARRENSBURG, Mo., (AP)—The Warrensburg Mules have retained their track championship of the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association, and taken the tennis title as well.

Warrensburg scored 61 points Saturday to win the track meet. Kirksville was second with 51½ points, followed by Cape Girardeau, Maryville, Springfield and Rolla.

In the tennis competition, Warrensburg players ousted all competitors in the quarter-finals.

Springfield captured the golf championship with a team score of 615 for 36 holes. Kirksville was second with 621.

St. Louis Win Gives No. 2 Spot To Finsterwald

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Dow Finsterwald, 26-year-old thumper from Bedford Heights, Ohio, made a major move in pro golf circles when he won a pressure-packed victory in the $25,000 St. Louis Open.

It boosted him to the No. 2 spot among the nation's money winners.

Finsterwald, who only turned pro in 1952 and then spent about two years in the service, posted his fourth sub-par round at Sunset Country Club yesterday for a 72-hole total of 274, 14 under par. He won $5,000.

His rounds on the 6,277-yard par 34-38-72 course, swept by brisk winds each day, were 65-71-69-69.

It was Finsterwald's third tournament victory after wins at the Fort Wayne and British Columbia opens and boosted his winnings for the year to $12,395, just behind big Mike Souchak's $12,859 in the PGA listings. He was ninth prior to this tournament.

"I never saw a man chip better than Finsterwald did the last two days of the tournament," said cigar-smoking Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex., who finished in a three-way second-place tie at 277 with Jack Burke Jr., Masters champ from Kiamecha Lake, N.Y., and Bill Casper Jr., Chula Vista, Calif. Each won $2,160.

Finsterwald led from opening day when he fired a 7 under par.

John Landy May Quit Mile, Will Retire After Olympic Games

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Australia's fleet John Landy, who has run the mile six times under 4 minutes, may not give himself another chance to crack his own world record of 3:58.

The Melbourne schoolteacher flies today to Miami, Fla., for a 10-day holiday after running two under-4-minute miles in seven days in a United States visit of good will for the 1956 Olympics Games in his home country.

Landy breezed the mile in 3:59.1 Saturday night in the West Coast Relays at Fresno. Immediately after winning by more than 75 yards over Ron Delany, Irish student at Villanova, Landy said:

"This may be my last mile race."

He explained he now will concentrate on the 1,500 meters or the 5,000 meters for the Olympic Games in Melbourne.

Instructions In Painting For Clean-Up

Before you take your paint brush in hand as part of your Clean Up-Point-Up-Fix-Up Week, a few simple instructions should be followed to insure satisfactory results.

One of the first steps is an inspection of the surfaces to be re-coated. Cracks, large and small, should be taken care of immediately. Small hairline cracks can be filled with spackling material. Since it sets very rapidly, you will be wise to smooth the surface before the filling material is quite dry. This will reduce the amount of sanding necessary later. In applying the filler you can use a putty knife, an old kitchen knife, or even your finger and thumb. Larger cracks will probably need to be filled with patching plaster. To prevent the plaster from falling out, it's a good idea to cut out a triangular channel in the plaster along the line of the crack — this channel should be narrow at the surface and wider inside. Then the plaster is fed into the narrow opening. Once the plaster is thoroughly dry, sandpaper the patches until they're even with the surface.

Dust all your walls with a dry mop. Where grease is present, it will be necessary to wash down the walls. All waxy or glossy surfaces should be toned down with sandpaper.

Remove all "hardware" before you begin to paint. This includes light switch panels, light fixtures, door handles, and panels on electric outlets.

Be certain to cover all furniture and your head before you start painting. It's a good idea to rub a protective cream onto your hands and arms — then you'll easily remove any paint splatters.

After you have read the manufacturer's instructions on the label and followed any of his suggested preparations, you'll be ready to begin painting.

These simple rules will make your painting easier and faster, and before you know it, you'll have a whole new room or house, just as springlike as the budding outdoors.

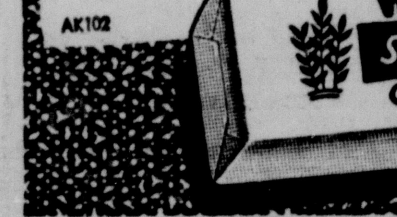

Silo Poison

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (U.P.) — University of Minnesota researchers are conducting experiments on the "silo gas" which killed three Minnesota farmers in 1955. The gas was identified as nitrogen oxide. Farmers were warned against going inside silos during filling or for at least a week or 10 days after.

Family Is First On List of 1957 Mrs. America

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (U.P.) — A 31-year-old Portland, Ore., mother of three boys who maintains that "good homemaking is the basis of a great nation" is Mrs. America of 1957.

Mrs. Cleo Maletis, a former fashion designer in New York, won the title in competition with 48 other entries Saturday night after a weeklong series of contests at Ellinor Village, a few miles north of Daytona Beach.

Mrs. Maletis puts her family and church at the top of any woman's life.

She teaches Sunday school in the Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox Church at home; is active in parent-teacher work; sews for her sons—Chris, 7; Thomas, 4; and Edward, 2—and likes to entertain friends with buffet meals. She is active in the Oregon Home Economics Assn.

Mrs. Maletis was married in 1947 to Chris Maletis, vice president of a soft drink concern.

"I'm not what I am because of what I learned in school but for what I've been taught at home," she says. "Everything begins at home."

After a week's vacation here, the slender, brown-haired mother will begin a year of public appearances.

Adlai Starts Campaigning In Oregon

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Adlai Stevenson moved swiftly into an Oregon campaign tour today seeking support of the state's 16 delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

He flew into Oregon last night and an hour later was making a strong appeal for the women's vote.

A competing tour will be opened Tuesday at Klamath Falls in southern Oregon by Sen. Estes Kefauver.

Tuesday night at Eugene, Ore. they are scheduled to speak from the same platform in the University of Oregon's basketball pavilion. Last night Stevenson told some 650 persons at a meeting sponsored by a Portland Democratic women's group that he had found in his travels a greater interest and participation by women in political affairs. He called that "all to the good." He told them also he favors improvement of social security benefits for women.

He jabbed sharply at the Eisenhower administration, and twice referred to the President, but not by name. He said he found it strange that one newspaper he did not name would oppose the candidacy of the late President Roosevelt when he was 63, but now finds it perfectly proper for another man to seek office at an even greater age. President Eisenhower is 65. He referred, too, to the President's fondness for golf. He said he had replied to a Call-

Discovery of Body In Chicago River Ends Mother's Day Hope

CHICAGO (AP)—A young mother's hope of seeing her missing son return on Mother's Day went unfulfilled. His body was found in the Chicago River.

"We were hoping that because today was Mother's Day he would come home to us," sobbed Mrs. Leo Rausch, 32, on learning of the death of her son Leo Rausch Jr., 8.

"Last Mother's Day he saved money from his allowance and bought me a beautiful flower," she recalled.

Police said the boy's body had been in the water at least a week and possibly since the day of his disappearance April 30 when he failed to show up for school. They said he apparently had drowned. His body bore no marks of violence.

Mrs. Rausch said her son had run away several times last winter but returned home each time on his own.

The Rausches have four other children, ranging in age from 3 to 9.

formian's inquiry about his sunburned face by saying, "Well, I didn't get it playing golf."

Stevenson said Eisenhower's Cabinet has three members representing one corporation, but none for organized labor.

Neither Stevenson nor Kefauver officially filed as a candidate for president at the May 18 primary election so their contest will be one of write-in votes.

FILM FAN FANATIC—George Raborn, a sports columnist in Waco, Tex., claims to be the world's greatest movie fan. Competition for George will be hard pressed, for the 32-year-old Texan sees a movie every 24 hours. Raborn says he's seen over 6500 movies since he took up film-viewing as a hobby.

The American revolution lasted six years, 1775-1781, but it was nearly two years later, in 1783, before peace was formally proclaimed.

Three Youths Drown In Three Acre Pond On the Family Farm

WARREN, Ill. (AP)—A father and mother watched helplessly yesterday as their three young sons—all nonswimmers—drowned in an artificial pond on the family farm.

The victims were Allen Gollmer, 17, a senior at Warren High School; and his two brothers, Charles, 13, and Claude, 10.

Laverne Gollmer, the father, said he and his wife saw their youngest son fall from the home-made raft the youths were paddling into deep water of the three-acre pond.

The two older brothers plunged into the water from the raft in a futile rescue attempt.

The father, also a nonswimmer, jumped into the pond from the shore while his wife ran screaming for help. Her shouts attracted a neighbor, John Bausman, who was able to pull the father from the pond. He was unable to find the three boys.

The bodies were recovered three hours later.
